

SCRIPT

Scene 1: SCHOOL CLASSROOM

Sunlight streams through the window, illuminating dust motes dancing in the air. The teacher drones on about photosynthesis, but Sol couldn't care less. He flips through a comic book, occasionally snorting with laughter.

Scene 2: STOLEN GLANCES

Luna sits on the row next to him, diligently taking notes. The bell rings. Students shove books into bags in a rush, a cacophony of chatter erupts. Sol glances at Luna, a shy smile playing on his lips. She catches his eye, offers a small smile back, and they head out the door like they always do every day, towards their favorite restaurant.

Scene 3: INTRO MONTAGE

Sol and Luna walks home together. Luna spots a stray cat and decides to slip it some leftover food from her lunch together with Sol. Sol and Luna studying together. Luna explains a concept with a single raised eyebrow while Sol scribbles about furiously with a confused expression on his face. Sol nervously presenting a project that Luna secretly helped him with and nailing it. Luna leans back in her chair and smirks in pride as the teacher compliments Sol.

Scene 4: SOL'S APARTMENT

After school later that day, Sol paces nervously in his cramped apartment. Luna sits on the worn couch, flipping through a magazine. Their unfinished homework sprawled on the table left to collect dust. Sol only then realizes just how much he finds Luna;s presence and company enjoyable, even though all they're doing as of the moment is sitting in silence in his apartment. Sol realizes he would much rather do nothing with Luna, than do nothing by himself. This realization makes him realize something else, something much deeper than he thought.

Scene 5: A CONFESSION PLAN

He realizes his feelings have grown far too deep, and he can't seem to shake it off himself. He sits down, reaching for a small cat figurine on his desk. It was a gift from Luna, as it reminded each other of their only shared interest. He stares at it, then a spark ignites in his eyes. He spins around, determination etched on his face. Luna raises an eyebrow, but before he can even say a word, Sol bursts out in a fit of nervous laughter. Luna rolls her eyes, almost used to this kind of behavior from Sol, a hint of a smile playing on her lips.

Scene 6: SCHOOL HALLWAY

The next day, the familiar sound of the school bell rings. Sol and Luna fall into step beside each other, a comfortable silence settling between them. They head towards their usual lunch spot... or so Sol thought. Out of nowhere, Luna grabs Sol's arm, pulling him off course. He sputters, confused, but Luna hushes him. Sol sighs, realizing his carefully crafted confession plan is crumbling. Maybe he would be able to confess another day, since today looks like it's not in his favor.

Scene 7: NEIGHBORHOOD STREET

But he couldn't bear not getting it off his chest. Sol stops abruptly, Luna turning back with a frown. He pauses, before pulling out the cat figurine, avoiding eye contact. Luna takes it looking all bewildered. He then hands her over a folded note with a heart and the word "Luna" written in cursive. Luna hesitates, but she takes it and begins reading. A flicker of sadness gradually crosses her face the closer she gets to the end of the letter. Then, much to Sol's surprise, she casually folds it, puts it in her pocket, and hands the figurine back. Sol's heart sinks, but before he could even wonder if he has gotten rejected, Luna grabs his hand with a determined glint in her eyes, urging him to continue walking with her.

Scene 8: CAT CAFÉ

They walk for what feels like an eternity. When Luna comes to a stop, Sol finally looks up, bracing himself for rejection. But a giant banner is the first thing he sees, with the words "Cat Cafe Grand Opening!" written in big bold letters. Sol is surprised, as this was nothing close to what he expected to see. Luna points excitedly to a section about cat adoptions. Relief washes over Sol. Luna smiles warmly, takes his hand again, and leads him inside.

Scene 9: NEW CHAPTER

Sol and Luna are seen volunteering, playing with cats and cleaning cages. Sol seems genuinely happy, although there's an obvious touch of longing lingering in his eyes. Suddenly, a black and white cat leaps onto Sol's lap, purring. He looks at Luna, who smiles encouragingly. He smiles back, knowing that they both found a new favorite restaurant to go to during lunch breaks. He realizes this must be a new chapter unfolding for the both of them.

Scene 10: EXIT MONTAGE

Sol holds the black and white cat, and Luna a ginger tabby nestled in her arms. A camera clicks, capturing the moment - two friends, their hearts full, surrounded by purring companions. The image fades to black.